TIDB 101 What is Management?

TIDB 101 introduces students to the business world by critically examining the art of management. The course focuses on the question: why do people work together and how? The objective of TIDB 101 is to introduce students to basic business concepts, to develop a plan for their field of study, as well as to have fun in the process. The first year Career Management Center Sessions will be offered as part of the course.

TIDB 102 Law and Order

In Henry VI, Shakespeare wrote, “The first thing we do, let’s kill all the lawyers.” However, “all the lawyers” have avoided being killed since that line was written. Why? From the largest corporate mergers to simple adoptions, and from public policy to the enactment of criminal laws, the need for lawyers is increasing because the law is a central part of our daily lives and the bedrock of a free society. Although occasionally the press might indicate otherwise, lawyers are members of a profession and they get respect, but is being a lawyer really like the popular portrayals on television shows such as Law and Order or in a John Grisham novel? This class will help you explore how one becomes a lawyer and what it is like to be a lawyer. For example, what do lawyers do? Why do some lawyers go to court and others do not? Where do they work? What kind of skills do you need to be a successful lawyer? Do you want to take some interesting trips, such as sitting in on a trial, meeting a judge, or seeing a jail? If you want to find out answers to questions and more, take the Law and Order TIDE. The first year Career Management Center Sessions will be offered as part of the course.

TIDB 111 Leadership: Geeks and Geezers

Our economic system and our society need leaders, but how are those leaders born? Our youngest leaders matured in the glow of computer screens; our oldest in the shadow of the Depression and World War II. This class will examine how era and values shaped leaders from these two disparate groups affectionately labeled geeks and geezers. During the journey, we hope to discover something more profound: the process through which leaders of any era emerge. The business tides courses can be used to satisfy the first public service requirement. Students who successfully complete TIDB 101 or 102 and TIDB 111 will satisfy the first public service requirement. One public service credit will be added for students who take both TIDB 101 or TIDB 102 and TIDB 111.
