

The School of Liberal Arts

Russian Studies

Office: 119 F. Edward Hébert Hall

Phone: 504-862-8604

Fax: 504-862-8739

Program Administrators

Samuel C. Ramer, History (Director)

William C. Brumfield, Germanic and Slavic Studies (Co-Director)

Faculty Associates

John Herschel Baron, Music

George M. Cummins, Germanic and Slavic Studies

Raymond C. Taras, Political Science

MAJOR

A major in Russian Studies consists of two years of Russian language (or equivalent by advanced placement), plus nine courses selected from the following list. Majors must have at least two courses in each of three disciplines, and must take at least two courses above the 300 level.

The Arts

MUSC 341 Russian Music

RUSS 353 Survey of Russian Art

History

HISE 324 Russian History from the 9th to the Mid-19th Centuries

HISE 325 Russian History: The End of the Empire and the Soviet Period

HISE 327 Literature and Society in Russia, 1800-1917

HISE 328 Literature and Society in Russia, 1917-1991

HISE 624 History of Imperial Russia, 1801-1917

HISE 625 The Russian Revolution and the Soviet Regime

Literature

RUSS 303 Masterpieces of Russian Literature I

RUSS 304 Masterpieces of Russian Literature II

RUSS 345 Tolstoy and Dostoevsky in English Translation

RUSS 370 Russian Poetry

Political Science

POLC 436 Russian Politics

POLI 465 Russian Foreign Policy

RSST H491, H492 Independent Studies (3, 3)

Staff. Prerequisite: approval of program director. Open to students provided that the appropriate faculty director is available.

RSST H499-H500 Honors Thesis (3, 4)

Staff. Admission by approval of the program director and the honors committee.