Dear Students:

Здравствуйте, студенты!

Welcome to Tulane! No knowledge of Russian is required for this course. If you've had substantial Russian, you should ask for placement to an upper-level course.

Course Description

This course introduces the student to the language of the Russians and to the people of the world's largest and perhaps most paradoxical nation. Fundamental grammatical notions and basic discourse skills will be taught; students will learn to write Russian and to make and understand simple conversations about their families, academic interests, and daily lives, as well as about the geography and culture of the Russians. Internet materials and computer-assisted teaching models supplement the textbook. No knowledge of Russian is required. The class meets MWF at 12 in N115 and T at 12:30 in N208.

Text

Smorodinskaya, Lubensky, Ervin, Jarvis. Начало. When in Russia... 2001. Second Edition. With accompanying Workbook and Laboratory Manual. Audio materials and accompanying video are available in the Language Learning Center, 402 Newcomb Hall.

Course Goals and Objectives

The course focuses on introducing and developing basic discourse and writing skills. The student will learn to write in Russian, to understand and respond to simple utterances and to speak about himself and selected topics in Russian culture. (S)he will manipulate learning tools: the language and multi-media center, the internet with its rich Russian site bank, and will explore strategies for learning this difficult and very 'foreign' tongue.

Course Requirements:

Attendance is essential for success in acquiring language skills and is mandatory in this class. Unexcused absences will be reflected in the participation grade (see below); after four such absences, the final grade will be reduced by one point (A > A-, A- > B+, etc.) for each absence. Students are encouraged to attend as regularly as possible, and in return have the instructor's word that they will not be badgered, grilled, or punished for incomplete homework assignments. All students who attend this class are sure to learn some Russian and will be treated with respect.

Note: "Instructors are not authorized to excuse absences that extend calendar holidays. Only the student's dean may excuse such absences. A student who has excessive unexcused absences or ceases to attend a course without an official withdrawal will, at the instructor's request and with the approval of the associate dean, be withdrawn from the course and receive a grade of WF.”

(University policy)

May I quote to you from our departmental policy on introductory and intermediate language classes: “Actively participating in class, that is, interacting with others in the target language, is the single most important aspect of language learning.” Participation includes not only attending class and participating in discussion and debate, but also completing homework on time, reading a preparing the assigned text materials, and asking questions when you do not understand.”

I ask you to do written homework assignments on time as much as possible, to participate in class recitation and discussion, to ask questions when I am unclear, to take quizzes and tests with good humor and equanimity. The key to learning a language is good, steady work, work that is sustained and pleasurable that is goal-directed toward real results. Be prepared to enjoy what you are doing and to do it regularly.

In the course of the semester we will have three or four scheduled in-class conferences to discuss your progress and your grades in Russian.

Tests

I will offer weekly or bi-weekly quizzes summarizing class material; no midterm; a comprehensive oral and written final.
