Работа на неделю № 4

February 1 — February 8 2010

For Monday, February 1

на понедельник, 1-ое февраля

Урок 6.4 Grammar (please read the corresponding paragraphs):

1. Нет, не было, не будет (267).

Кати сегодня не будет на уроке. Cathy today will not be in class. ('Cathy' is in the genitive.)

У меня не было стола, не было воды в квартире. I didn't have a desk and didn't have water in my apartment.

Note that the genitive of non-existence is used in the past and future as in the present.

2. Нужно (268).

У нас всё, что нужно. We have everything we need (lit.: 'all what need').

Мне очень нужен муж. I need a husband very much (lit.: to me is very needed husband).

Мне нужна симпатичная жена. I need a nice wife.

Тебе нужны новая машина и деньги. You need a new car and money.

'Need' is expressed by the short adjective нУжен in one of its four gender forms: masc, fem, neuter, plural. It agrees with the entity that is needed. This construction is used with the dative of the 'needer' and nominative of the 'needed' entity.

3. Надо / не надо. 269. Надо means 'one has to, one must'. It is used with an infinitive. Не надо is a prohibition or, on the other hand, an expression of something no longer needed.

Мне надо работать. I have to work.

Не надо играть громко. Don't play loudly.

Уже нам не надо покупать стол. Now we don't have to buy a desk.

Хотите хорошие отметки, надо много заниматься. If you want good grades, you have to study a lot.

4. Short form adjectives (270).

Я должен идти. I must go. (дОлжен, должнА, должнО, должнЫ).

‘должен’ means ‘should, must’, with an inner obligation felt by the subject, which is in the Nom. case.

Ваш сын на фотографии очень похож на вас. Your son in the photograph looks very much like you. (похож похожа похоже похожи). This short adjective takes the preposition на and the Acc. case.

Я рада, что вы любите мою музыку. I'm glad you like my music.

Вы уверены, что папа уже дома? Are you sure that father is already home?

5. Discourse adverbs (271). Кстати by the way, прежде всего first of all, кроме того besides.

Look at the five grammar topics. Then read the text, 266 (also found on your textbook CD). Look at it carefully, it is excellent. Please write out (some) complete Russian textual examples that you can find in Tania's diary of 1) Gen with negative existence in the past 2) нужно 3) не надо in the meaning 'it is not necessary' 4) short adjectives 5) discourse adverbs 6) examples of inverted word order.

Thank you!
