Работа на неделю 6

Dear students,

For Weds. 17 February and Fri 19 February, see the final pages of last week's Work for the Week.

For Monday, 22 February

Lesson 7.2

In 7.2 we learn the future of P and I verbs. Any P verb conjugated in the 'present' is future; I future is periphrastic with буду + inf.

There are a lot of verbs here and I am choosing a subset for you to really memorize cold (remember from 7.1 you know learn, invite, write, read).

Here they are, with other assorted items. Note my conventions. Parenthesized prefix means that with the prefix, the item is P, without, it is I. The infinitive is cited, then forms from the conjugation, esp. 3rd plural, from which you can induce the whole conjugation (3rd pl я/а implies nonterminal и, 3rd pl ю/у implies е or ё). Irregular forms are supplied. See my sample conjugations below. Please use the CD to listen to the vocabulary.

More verbs than I list are in this lesson, and we will gradually become familiar with them.

for Monday, Feb 22

Please study above vocab and review the text, 297-8. Consider «time when» on p. 300 (we have already seen в семь часов вечера, в субботу). Write workbook Д on this topic.

Please write workbook Б В Г on beginning and finishing (see vbs above.)

Look at 7.9, p. 301, on expressing thanks, very important to Russians, and write workbook Е.

We will begin looking at future tense and aspect. Look at 7.11, 303-304 and ponder the meaning of the following Russian phrases:

1. я тебе позвоню
2. я тебе часто звонил, но уже не буду звонить
3. я напишу книгу о Москве.
4. я буду писать книги.
5. я не опоздаю на урок.
6. я никогда не опаздываю (Jim to Tania in video 7)
7. я не знаю, спрошу Лену
