Philosophy

Newcomb Children's Center (NCC) provides a program designed for children 12 months to five years of age. A variety of activities and experiences are planned to meet the social, intellectual and physical needs of the preschool child. This includes periods of quiet and active play; individual, small, and large group activities; lunch and snacks, as well as rest and sleep.

Admissions and Enrollment

NCC accepts children whose parents are members of the Tulane Community, i.e., faculty members, staff, and students. If spaces are available, those in the community will be considered.

Your child's slot for enrollment will be considered upon receipt of all registration papers, along with activity fee and first months tuition.

NEWCOMB CHILDREN'S CENTER

Prior to Hurricane Katrina the Newcomb Children's Center was comprised of two separate programs, Newcomb College Nursery School and Newcomb Child Care Center of Tulane University. Each site provided developmentally suitable activities for preschool children. During post-Katrina we will operate a full day program to facilitate the reopening of the university. We will continue to offer the same appropriate playground and classroom facilities that help give each child opportunities to develop physically, mentally, and socially. The underlying educational theory of the center is that a variety of hands-on experiences help children become confident, curious, and ready to learn.

The Children's Center provides a place for observation, research, and practical field experience with young children for Tulane faculty and students. Our children benefit from the presence of college students in their classrooms.
