Dear Jeanne,

Many thanks for taking us under your wing and for being such a good lookout for culinary treasures, and materials concerned with Newcomb graduates. I am especially pleased to add the clippings on you and your house to our files and to welcome, also, the cookbook by Tanaquil Le Clerq. How perfect that your brother added shrimp creole, daube, and pralines!

In the fall, we will begin a series of programs called "Keeping Memories." We will be compiling a series of articles on the history of the College, mounting some on-line exhibits about Louisiana women, and focusing on preservation efforts for the letters and photographs of Newcomb alumnae. You will be getting some publicity about all these events, and some in-house exhibits, too.

In the meantime, and again, thank you so much.

Sincerely,

Susan Tucker
Curator of Books and Records
