

Reflections on Practical Philosophy: An Undergraduate Conference Hosted by Loyola University New Orleans and Tulane University

November 21-22, 2009

Sponsored by:

the Loyola Philosophy Department, the Tulane Philosophy Department, the Loyola University Honors Program, the Loyola Student Government Association, and the Bieber Lecture Series

Schedule of Events

Saturday, November 21, 2009

Nunemaker Auditorium, Loyola University New Orleans

- 3:00 Opening Remarks, Robert Brice, Loyola University
- 3:10 "Husserl and the Phenomenology of Historical Knowledge," Brian Schultz, Depaul University
- 3:40 "Wittgenstein, Merleau-Ponty, and the Question of the Sub-Linguistic," Erick Piller, Loyola
- 4:10 "Split Persons and Time Travel: Personal Identity and Fission," Victor Szczepanski,
New Mexico State University
- 4:40 "Socratic Allegory of the Divine," Kelly Martin, Tulane University
- 5:10 Break
- 5:25 Keynote Address: "Violence and Splendor," Alfonso Lingis, emeritus, Penn State University
- 6:20 Q & A
- 6:45 Reception

Sunday, November 22, 2009

Lavin-Bernick Center, Suite 203 (Stibbs Room), Tulane University

- 11:00 Opening Remarks, Richard Velkley, Tulane University
- 11:10 "Practical Knowledge and Practical Skepticism," Jon Kurinsky, University of Chicago
- 11:40 "Klosko on Fairness: Obligation, Duty, and Voluntary Action," Ian Cruise,
Louisiana State University
- 12:10 "From the Groundwork of the Metaphysics of Morals to a Pure Practical Philosophy," Alex Ackel, Loyola University
- 12:40 Break (a light lunch will be provided)
- 1:10 "The Child of Lions: Nietzsche and Hip Hop Culture," Joe Holmes, University of Mary Washington
- 1:40 "A Kantian Addition to Knobe's Account of Intentionality," Benjamin Dubroc,
Louisiana State University
- 2:10 "Foucault and Modern Power: Against the Fixation of the Subject," Casey Ford, Depaul University
- 2:40 "An Obstacle to the Credibility of Kant," Rebecca Gonzales, Loyola

Inquiries may be directed to Nate Thacker (nethacke@loyno.edu) or Dr. Richard Velkley (rvelkley@tulane.edu)